

We have thousands of regular customers and we exchange information via fax regularly. Customers ask for product information and availability every day. If we need to have a written permission on file, this will have a negative impact in our business procedures, flexibility and speed in giving the requested information.